The fact that the President's respiration ble with the lung will yield to treatment. Dr. Biss will not say what the treatment is. It is explained by Dr. Boynton in this wise: He says the President's throat is filled with phlegm, which gives him some trouble to et his breath, and thus increases the rapidty of breathing. He does not say the Pre ident has an abscess on his longs, but he is afraid one is liable to develop.

A MORE CHEERY FEELING. The feeling about Elberon to-day is more cheery than yesterday. General Swaim, who stayed in the sick room all last night said the patient had a good night. Hamilton at noon told a brace of newspaper men that the President was progressing lowly, still be was progressing. Attorney General MacVeogh will bereafter send th Lowell telegram. Secretary Blaine left a request for either Drs. Agnew or Hamilton to take care of it. The febrile rise was scarcely perceptible last night, and what little there was continued until the morning dressing, which accounts for the high temperature in the morning bulletin. Dr. Bliss still maintains that the President is convalescent, and there are no indications of blood-poison.
